THE TEMPLE OF BÎGEH

BY AYLWARD M. BLACKMAN M. A.

LAYCOCK STUDENT OF EGYPTOLOGY AT WORCESTER COLLEGE, OXFORD, LATE OXFORD UNIVERSITY NUBIAN RESEARCH SCHOLAR, FORMERLY SCHOLAR OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

PREFACE.

The following record of the Temple of Bìgeh was made in April and early May, 1910. Owing to the intense heat of the pile of granite boulders that forms the Island of Bìgeh, the development of negatives proved very difficult, and although I managed to obtain ice from the Sudan Government's steamers at Shellal the results were not altogether satisfactory. I have been helped out of this difficulty however by my friend Dr. Junker of Vienna through whose friendly offices I obtained permission to publish in this volume the magnificent photographs of Bìgeh Temple belonging to the Königlichen Akademie der Wissenschaften at Berlin. I trust that in spite of the war both Dr. Junker and the Akademie will accept my warmest thanks for their generosity. But I have to thank Dr. Junker for other favours. He not only gave me much help while I was preparing my manuscript, but also read through the proofs, making several important suggestions and corrections. My best thanks are also due to Mr. Griffith for editing the Demotic graffiti (see p. 47), to Professor Hunt for editing the little Greek inscription on p. 49, and to Miss Porter for again furnishing me with full bibliographical particulars.

THE TEMPLE OF BÎGEH.

PART I.

INTRODUCTION AND TEXT.

The island of Bîgeh which lies between Philæ and El-Heseh (Pl. II, 1), is, with the exception of the last named, the southernmost of the islands in the First Cataract. Like El-Heseh Bîgeh consists of a number of small rugged granite hills⁽¹⁾ intersected by winding valleys. At the water's edge, wherever there is a sufficient deposit of Nile-mud, the thrifty inhabitants raise their scanty crop of vegetables and dura⁽²⁾, while they build their houses (Pl. II, 2 and 4) upon any available ledge on the hill-sides. In one of the valleys, in the centre of the island, is the modern cemetery⁽³⁾ with the tomb of the local sheykh in its midst (Pl. II, 3).

The temple is situated on the east shore opposite Philæ, and, till the raising of the water-level by the Aswan dam, stood some way back from the river. There was a stone quay or landing-stage in front of the pylon, but some little distance away from it. This has now disappeared beneath the water which comes quite close up to the pylon itself⁽⁴⁾. Immediately behind the temple rise the granite hills, upon the boulders composing which numbers of graffiti are to be found. In former years the temple was surrounded with houses⁽⁵⁾ (Pl. III, 1). These have recently been demolished and the precincts cleared of all encumbrances.

Like the temples of Kalabsheh, Dendûr, Ajûala and Halfa, that of Bîgeh also appears to have been erected on a terrace or platform, composed no doubt of the underlying ruins of earlier edifices. The original substructure, however, has been so enveloped in modern cement that it is now impossible to determine its exact nature (Pl. III, 2). Most of the temple has been destroyed, all that now remains being the gate-way of the pylon⁽¹⁾ and the greater part of the façade of the outer hall. This façade consists of four columns⁽²⁾, adorned with the elaborate floral capitals usual in the Ptolemaic and early Roman periods, combined with a screen or curtain-wall of about half the height of the columns⁽³⁾.

⁽²⁾ Even these poor attempts at husbandry have now had to be abandoned owing to the increased height of the water-level.

⁽³⁾ For an account of the ancient cemeteries see REISNER, op. cit., p. 102-111.

⁽⁴⁾ WEIGALL, op. cit., Pl. XII, 4. My description was written in 1910. The temple is now (1913) almost completely submerged when the reservoir is full.

What remains of the outer hall is the work of Ptolemy XIII, but the reliefs on the pylon gate-way were executed in the reign of Augustus, whose cartouches appear above the head of the officiating king in all the scenes, and also in the dedicatory inscriptions (e. g. p. 4; f) in this part of temple.

The scenes and inscriptions on the exterior walls of the pylon gate-way are executed in sunk relief (en creux), as are also those on the east (exterior) face of the screen, on the columns, and on the east jambs and interior walls of the door-way, of the outer hall.

The scenes and inscriptions on the interior walls of the pylon gate-way, on the west face of the screen, and on the west jambs of the door, of the outer hall, are in low relief.

WEST WALL.

(Pl. XIV.)

All that now remains of the north pylon-tower is a fragment of the west wall adjoining the gate-way. On it is a small portion of a scene showing part of the figure of a goddess(?) who is standing .

- TEXT. a. Behind the goddess in a vertical line :    "King of Upper and Lower Egypt : the great gods, lords of heaven and earth, lords of the month, making the light to shine in the darkness, lords of the youths(?), who make women conceive, when their majesties shine in the heaven every day."

COLUMN 4 (Pls. XXI, XXIV, and XXV).

Published : See CHAMPOLLION, Notices descriptives, I, 160, for a general description and for the cartouches in a, and the text of b; see also L., D., Text IV, 174, for name and titles of Hathor at end of b, and DENON, Voyage, 116, 2, for a (upper band).

The capital and top of the column were doubtless exactly like the corresponding parts in columns 2 and 3 (see pp. 26-27 for a full description). Immediately below the now destroyed five rings, which represent the cords that bind together the bundle of stalks forming the shaft, are two encircling bands of inscription.

The frame which encloses this scene and scene III consists of a roll, or torus, at top and sides. Above the torus at the top is a winged disk (see Pls. XIX, 1, XXII, XXIII and XXIX), and this is surmounted by a cornice adorned with uraei (see Pls. XIX, 1 and XXIX). Outside the torus on either side is a single papyrus-reed upon the head of which rests a cobra that has entwined the stalk in its long coils. Doubtless the serpent on the north side wore the -crown and the one on the south side the -crown (cf. pp. 37 and 40 and Dendûr, Pls. XXXII, XXXIV, and LXXXVIII).

COLUMN 2 (Pls. XIX, 1, XXIII, XXIX, and XXX).

Published : See L., D., Text IV, 174 for the end of text b.

This column and column 3 have the usual elaborate floral capitals of the period. The stalks of the bundle of reeds which form the column, are actually carved on the part of the shaft immediately below the capital. They terminate in five rings which represent the cords with which the bundle is tied. Beneath these five rings there are two bands of inscription encircling the column.

a. The upper band consists of repetitions of the two cartouches of Ptolemy XIII placed side by side (resting each on the sign  and surmounted by ) , alternating with the figure ⁽¹⁾. From the tip of each of the -sticks held by this figure hangs the -symbol, while the end of each stick terminates in  (not ).

The cartouches are :  .

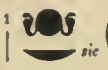

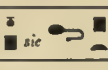

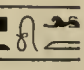

b. The lower band of inscription, is as follows : ⁽²⁾ "Live the good god! Driving back the foe (hrw), supporting (?) (hry?) heaven, king of Upper and Lower Egypt, Ptolemaios-living-for-ever (Beloved-) of-Isis, beloved of Khnum-Re, lord of Bigeh."

Immediately below b, on the east side of the pillar, is the following inscription in a vertical line (Pl. XXX) :

THE DEMOTIC GRAFFITI OF BÎGEH

BY F. LL. GRIFFITH.

The graffiti of the Bîgeh temple cannot compare in interest with those of Philae. Although little remains of the temple, the survival of the main doorways has preserved a considerable number of graffiti, but they are short, ill-engraved, and in poor condition, and, until the exhaustive researches of the last few years, had not attracted the attention of any copyist. Upon the magnificent photographs of the scenes and hieroglyphic inscriptions made by the expedition of the Prussian Academy the demotic graffiti are shewn on a minute scale, and Mr. Blackman made squeezes of most. The following notes are all that I can gather from a brief study of these materials.

No. 1. In the thickness of the south jamb of the pylon gate (see Pls. V and VI, 1) two or three small graffiti can be detected.

No. 2. On the west face of the north jamb, between the heads of Isis and Horus (Pl. XIV) is a graffito of 7 or 8 short lines in bad condition.

No. 3. On the west face of the south jamb about the figures of Isis and Horus, and in the band above the scene (Pl. XVII) are five graffiti. Over the crown of Horus is «The salutation of Hor(?) son of Pshenthof», badly engraved.

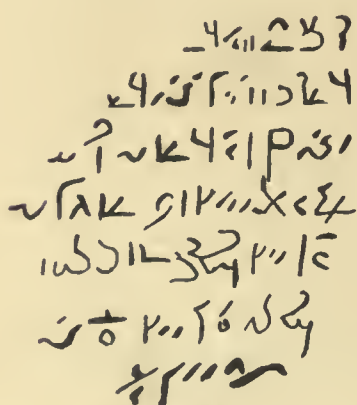

Graffito No. 3.

No. 4. In scene II on the east face of the screen wall (Pls. XXI-XXII and XXIX) are 4 longer lines, the first apparently reading : «His [name] remaineth here before Isis of Philae and Osiris of the Holy Place (i. e. Abaton). . . ».

No. 5. On the same wall over the head of the king in scene III (Pl. XXIII) is a graffito of 3 lines much injured.

No. 6. In scene I, on the east face of the north jamb of the entrance to the outer hall (Pl. XXIX) are four lines in front of the feet of the king. It begins with the name

Graffito No. 7.

«Esmet-o» and the groups moui, pwer, tpt are seen in the following lines. In front of the head of the next figure below is one line «Pshenthof. . . », cf. no. 3.

Graffito No. 6.

No. 7. On the north side of the passage of this entrance, between the standing figure of the king and the goddess(?) kneeling behind him (Pl. XXXII) is a graffito of 7 lines well preserved : «The salutation of Pakhnum son of Harpaesi son of Harheri son of Panasht(?) the Agent, and Esmet p-wer(?) the hierogrammat. . . . »

No. 8. On the east face of the south jamb (Pl. XXXIV) are two graffiti. The upper one (above the king in scene I) is of 5 lines
 «The salutation of Pabek son of Harpson», the lower (above the king in scene III) consists of the name «Petemerawe».

GREEK INSCRIPTION.

This mutilated Greek graffito is engraved on the interior south wall of the pylon gate-way, below scene II. Professor A. S. HUNT of Queen's College, Oxford, very kindly made the following transcription from a wet squeeze, adding a translation and a few comments.

Graffito No. 8.

ll. 3 and 4. Σμητυιοσπαεκουι is, I suppose, all one name as εκ πατρος follows, Φα . . . being the grandfather. The αε before κουι could be read αθ or λε.

ll. 7 and 8. Φιλων looks like Philæ, but I cannot read εκ or απδ before it.

Perhaps we should read [ε Σ⁸ | ενσμητ . . . or [ε (Σ)⁸ | ενσμητ . . . , Σεν being the common fem. prefix.

l. 10. Κα after Ισιδε of course means καλ, but there has been some correction, for the ι apparently has got left out.

ll. 11 and 12. επ αγαθω = αγαθῇ τύχῃ, i. e. «bonis auspiciis».
